

About the Authors

PILAR ARNAU i SEGARRA is preparing her doctoral thesis on Literatura exòfona Catalana the Universitat de les Illes Balears, where she also teaches. She has a degree in Translation and Intepretating Studies from the Universitat Autònoma of Barcelona, and in Didactics of Foreign Language Teaching to Adults from the Université de Toulouse-Le Miral. She is the author of Narrativa i turisme a Mallorca (1968–1980) (1999) and various other publications listed at www.uib.cat/depart/dfc/litecont/equippilararnau.html.

ANA BELÉN CÁNOVAS VIDAL is working on a PhD thesis entitled Javier Egea's poetical discourse at the University of Bordeaux, where she also works as an assistant teacher. She has taken part in colloquia and international congresses and published several articles about Javier Egea. She has organized a PhD students seminar (October 2015) about the hedonism in the Hispanic area as well as the publication of its proceedings.

LUÍSA DUARTE SANTOS is a doctoral student in Art History and a researcher at the Instituto de História da Arte at the Universidade Nova de Lisboa, Portugal. She has worked at the Neo-Realism Museum (Museu do Neo-Realismo) as a researcher and curator of numerous bio-bibliographical and fine arts exhibitions. Her research interests include social and political art in the 20th century, contemporary art cultural studies, relations between arts, and aesthetics theories. She has published several essays and articles in catalogues and journals.

LUULE EPNER is Associate Professor at the School of Humanities of the Tallinn University, and she also teaches at the University of Tartu, Institute of Cultural Studies and Arts. Her main research fields are drama theory, history of Estonian theatre and performance analysis. She has widely published on relevant topics in different journals, including Sign Systems Studies, Methis, Interlitteraria, Nordic Theatre Studies, etc. She is the author of Draamateooria probleeme I-II (Problems of Drama Theory, 1992–1994), and co-author of Eesti kirjanduslugu (Estonian Literary History, 2001) and Eesti sõnateater 1965–1985 (Estonian drama theatre 1965–1985, 2015).

CARLOS GARRIDO CASTELLANO is FCT Post-Doctoral Fellowship at the Centro de Estudos Comparatistas of the Universidade de Lisboa. His research interests focus on visual culture, critical theory and collaborative artistic practices. He authored two books on contemporary Caribbean art. Currently he coordinates the research project “Comparing We’s. Collectivism, Emancipation, Postcoloniality”.

ZSÓFIA GOMBÁR received her PhD from the University of Aveiro in 2012. She is currently a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Lisbon Centre for English Studies. Her principal research interest is literary censorship in Estado Novo Portugal and Socialist Hungary. She is the director of the Hungarian research project The Reception of English-Language Literature in Hungary, 1945–1989, housed at the Savaria University Centre, and also member of the Portuguese research projects Intercultural Literature in Portugal (CECC/ULICES), and IndirectTrans: Indirect Translations of English Literature published in Portugal (1901–1950) (ULICES).

ESPERANZA GUILLÉN is Senior Professor of Art History at the University of Granada (Spain). Her teaching and research activity has focused on the History of Architecture and Aesthetics between the 18th and 20th Century. Among other subjects, she has published studies on the relations between art and literature in writers such as Goethe, Bécquer, Loti or Huysmans. She is the author of the books Naufragios. Imágenes románticas de la desesperación (2004) and Retratos del genio. El culto a la personalidad artística en el siglo XIX (2007). Her most recent publications analyze the position of visual creators towards the art system by paying attention to their private writings: Orgullo y dependencia. Cartas de artistas españoles (1853–1939) (2013); Los artistas frente a la Primera Guerra Mundial. Correspondencia, diarios y memorias (2014). She is the director of the research project El artista y el dolor. El sufrimiento como límite de la representación en la cultura artística contemporánea.

STEPHANIE HONTANG is a teacher of Spanish at the Lycée Jean-Baptiste Baudre in Agen. She has the French National Education Ministry qualification CAPES since 2011 and an official certification on Audiovisual and Cinema. She is a doctoral student at the Université de Pau since 2015, preparing a thesis on Carlos Saura’s Argentinan-Spanish films. She is a member of ALEPH academic researches association.

CELINA MARTINS is a lecturer at the University of Madeira where she teaches Portuguese language literatures and comparative literature. She has published the essay, The Interweaving of Mestizo Voices. An Analysis of the Poetics of Alterity in the Fiction of Edouard Glissant and Mia Couto, and various articles in journals and in comparative literature proceedings. In 2010 she became the editor of Pensardiverso, the Lusophone Studies Journal of the University of Madeira.

ANA BELA MORAIS graduated from the Faculty of Arts of the University of Lisbon in 2001. She had a grant from the Fundação para a Ciência e a Tecnologia for her MA thesis entitled Onde o tempo se suspende. Tensão entre amor e violência na obra de Vergílio Ferreira ('Where time suspends it self. Tension between Love and Violence in the Work of Vergílio Ferreira'), and grants from Fundação Caloust Gulbenkian and Fundação Luso-Americana to study Cinema in Contemporary Time at Brown University (Providence, Rhode Island, USA) in 2006 as Visiting Scholar. She had a PhD grant in Cultural Studies on Violência e identidade no cinema na passagem do século XX para o século XXI ('Violence and Identity in Cinema from the Late Twenty Century to 2004'). At the moment she holds a postdoctoral grant in History and Cultural Studies on Cinema e Censura: amor e violência em Portugal e Espanha (1968–1974) ('Cinema and Censorship: love and violence in Portugal and Spain (1968–1974)'). She also teaches the course Cinema and Literature at Lisbon University.

GUADALUPE NIETO CABALLERO is working on her PhD project on Francisco Valdés, and working as a teacher assistant at the University of Extremadura (Spain). Her main research interests are in 20th-century Hispanic prose, in particular the avant-garde and Silver Age novel and criticism of the 1920s and 1930s, and the literature of the Republican and the Spanish Civil War. She has published works on Francisco Valdés and prose writers of the Silver Age. More recently, she has taken an interest in Iberian Comparative Literature.

SANTIAGO PÉREZ ISASI (B.A. and PhD in Spanish Literature by the Universidad de Deusto, 2009) is currently developing the exploratory project "Digital Map of Iberian Literary Relations (1870–1930)" (IF/00838/2014) funded by the Fundação para a Ciência e a Tecnologia. Santiago Pérez Isasi is member of the research group DIIA (Diálogos Ibéricos e Ibero-Americanos), at the Centre for Comparative Studies of the University of Lisbon and specializes in Iberian Studies, Literary History and Digital Humanities.

LUÍS CARLOS PIMENTA GONÇALVES is Associate Professor of Humanities Department of the Universidade Aberta (Portugal), where he teaches in the areas of literature and culture and is the coordinator of the Bachelor's degree in Applied Languages. He has a PhD in comparative from the University of Paris III-Sorbonne nouvelle. His research has focused on the relations between literature and other arts, particularly music and, and also the studies of translation. He has published in recent years studies in these areas in Portuguese and international magazines.

GABRIELA RIVERA RODRÍGUEZ is preparing her PhD and working at the Spanish Literature and Literary Theory Department at the University of Vigo with a FPU grant from the Spanish Ministry of Education and Culture. Her field of study is Latin American Literature and Uruguayan Carnival's theatre, especially during the last dictatorship (1973–1985). She has published works related to Carnival and its political commitment in Uruguayan society.

ANTONIO RIVERO MACHINA completed his doctoral thesis about the Spanish poetic scene of the 1940s in 2016. From 2011 to 2016 he taught and did research at the University of Extremadura. He has worked on the Spanish literature of the 17th and 20th century, his comparative work includes research about the Portuguese playwright in Spanish Jacinto Cordeiro and the presence of Portuguese and Spanish poetry across the Iberian border.

ALBA SAURA CLARES is a PhD student in the Official Doctorate Program in Arts and Humanities in the University of Murcia (Spain) with a scholarship funded by this University. Her research focuses on the phenomenon of Teatro Abierto and the Argentinian Theater during the dictatorship Proceso de Reorganización Nacional (1976–1983). She has published in the journals Mitologías hoy, Cartaphilus and Anagnórisis, also in volumes El sexo del teatro: arte y posmodernidad en la escena europea e iberoamericana (2014) and Transiciones. De la dictadura a la democracia (2016).

ISABEL SEGUÍ is a doctoral student at the Department of Film Studies of the University of St Andrews (Scotland, UK). She is currently researching Andean political cinema, from the 60s to the 80s, with a feminist approach. Her wider research interests include cine-testimonio, collaborative cinema, and issues of gender and power in collective cinematic practices in Latin America. She has published articles in peer-reviewed publications in Spain and Argentina and has curated film series of political cinema in festivals, universities and NGOs of Spain and Peru.

ALEJANDRO URRUTIA, originally from Santiago, Chile, has lived in Sweden since 1988. He works as senior lecturer at Mittuniversitetet in Sweden. His main areas of research interests are Spanish Baroque poetry, modern Chilean literature, pedagogy and gender.